

CREDIT

VOLUME I: CREDIT IN THE UNHAMPERED MARKET UNDER THE UNADULTERATED GOLD STANDARD

Table of Contents

Part One: Marginalism

- Chapter 1: Utility versus marginal utility
- Chapter 2: Marginal productivity of labor
- Chapter 3: Marginal productivity of capital
- Chapter 4: Marginal time preference
- Chapter 5: Marginal productivity of social circulating capital
- Chapter 6: On arbitrage
- Chapter 7: Marginal productivity of debt

Part Two: The Theory of Value versus the Theory of Interest

- Chapter 8: Marketability in the large versus marketability in the small
- Chapter 9: The most marketable good and the theory of value
- Chapter 10: The most hoardable good and the theory of interest
- Chapter 11: The Quantity Theory of Money
- Chapter 12: Is constant marginal utility contradictory
- Chapter 13: The Fullarton Effect
- Chapter 14: Gold and Interest

Part Three: Interest versus discount

- Chapter 15: The origin of interest
- Chapter 16: The origin of discount
- Chapter 17: The distinction between selfliquidating and non-selfliquidating credit
- Chapter 18: Fixed capital versus circulating capital
- Chapter 19: Time Preference School versus Productivity of School
- Chapter 20: Radical denial of credit springing from consumption as opposed to savings
- Chapter 21: Illicit interest arbitrage and the inversion of the yield curve

Appendix

The Second Greatest Strory Ever Told

In preparation:

CREDIT

VOLUME II: CREDIT IN THE MIXED ECONOMY AND THE SABOTAGING OF THE GOLD STANDARD

Appendix

The Sad Ending to the Second Greatest Story Ever Told

Further topics

New Austrian Economic Manifesto

Destruction of Capital

Economic Resonance, Hyper-deflation

Gold Backwardation and the Collapse of the Tacoma Bridge

Sowing Inflation, Reaping Deflation

The Wisdom of Adam Smith for Our Own Times

The Hexagonal Capital Market and Its Six Corners